Spring is prom time for many high school students. Your gently used formal wear, accessories, and shoes could help create a special evening for someone else while helping you clear more space in your home.

There are a number of national organizations that collect gently used formalwear year round and connect it with those who need it.

DonateMyDress.org is the first national network that brings together various local dress drive organizations across the United States, including some organizations here in Metro Detroit.

One such dress drive organization found on DonateMyDress.org is Hope Closet in Livonia, Michigan. Hope Closet accepts gently used, clean, formal dresses and accessories year round by mail to help young women attend high school events with a dress of their choice. (There is a particular need for current fashion, size 14W and larger.) Other specific requirements for donating and receiving dresses can be found on the Hope Closet website.

For more info: You may send dresses to Hope Closet at Hope Closet, P.O. Box 530413, Livonia, MI 48153-0413 or contact them by email at hopecloset@yahoo.com. Visit their website at www.hopecloset.com.

Do you know other Southeastern Michigan groups, projects or organizations that are accepting gently used home items of any type? If so, please send an email to pmkrebs@orderlyoasis.com or make a note of it in the comment section below. It could even be featured here at a later date!
